

2019 National Camping School Shooting Sports Pre-Class Requirements

The Boy Scouts of America and the NRA have worked together for over 50 years to provide BSA youth with the best safety and marksmanship programs. In the past 8 years, the NRA has supported the BSA with a discounted materials program and quality instructor programs for BSA Shooting Sports Directors. The BSA Rifle, Shotgun, Muzzle Loading Rifle, Pistol instructor and student programs have grown to over 20,000 NRA certified instructors. You must be a certified NRA instructor for Rifle and Shotgun prior to attending a shooting sports director section of National Camping School.

NRA Instructor Course Pre-Requisites: As of July 2018 All BSA shooting sports candidates MUST take a basic student class in their discipline before attending the instructor class. Therefore, before you can attend and be certified as a NRA Rifle and Shotgun instructor at one of the following trainings, you MUST already have taken and passed NRA Basic Rifle and Shotgun classes. The BSA and NRA offer these courses at discounted prices across the country or you can attend any commercial NRA Basic Rifle and Shotgun classes. The next page lists the BSA locations this year.

To become a BSA Shooting Sports Director:

Step 1: Attend NRA Basic Rifle and Shotgun courses in your local area.

Step 2: Attend NRA Rifle and Shotgun Instructor courses (see next page for a list of BSA NRA courses or attend one in your local area).

Step 3: Attend National Camping School Shooting Sports Director course (to serve as a shooting sports director).

To register for one of the following NRA-BSA sponsored instructor trainings, please contact your local BSA council.

Registration takes place on the national camping school registration link. Questions? Email Shooting.Sports@scouting.org
